

Code of Conduct 2010-11

This Code of Conduct is based on common sense principles. Each athlete or staff member shall conduct themselves in such a manner as to bring respect and dignity to the organization and themselves.

Basic Principles

While this document provides a general outline for expected behavior, it is not practical to list rules for every situation that may arise. However, the following principles should be carefully noted.

1. The safety and welfare of athletes, coaches, Copper Mountain's guests and staff is of primary importance, and all precautions should be taken to insure their safety.
2. Athletes and coaches are to be responsive and respectful to Copper Mountain's guests, staff and property at all times.
3. Athletes and coaches should display the highest level of personal responsibility while at Copper Mountain.
4. Each athlete is expected to conduct him or herself in a sportsman-like manner at all times and is responsible for his or her own actions while at Copper Mountain, on or off the hill, indoors or out.

Rules of Conduct

1. Be responsive and courteous to other program participants, coaches, parents, and Copper Mountain's guests and staff.
2. Treat all athletes, coaches and Copper Mountain's guests and staff with respect.
3. Respect Copper Mountain equipment and facilities. Vandalism to public or personal property is punishable by law and appropriate actions will be taken.
4. Each athlete will adhere to the Ski and Snowboard Responsibility and Smart Style Codes.
5. Quiet hours are from 10 pm to 8 am. Noise will be kept to an appropriate level during these hours.
6. The lodging unit will be left free of all debris; all garbage shall be placed in appropriate trash containers. If the unit requires excessive housekeeping additional fees will be applied to the team's final bill.
7. Any damage to the unit or property will be subject to extra fees for maintenance and replacement. This fee will be determined by Copper Mountain's Maintenance and Housekeeping departments and will be added to the team's final bill.
